

FRANCIS AND WARD TAKE OFFICE AT NOON; MANY NEW FACES TO APPEAR

Promptly at 12 o'clock today Frank Francis, former editor of The Standard, became mayor of Ogden.

At the same time J. Ray Ward, Ogden business man and former captain in the One Hundred Forty-fifth artillery, became a city commissioner.

The foregoing with Commissioner Chris Flygare, who has two more years to serve, constitute the city administration for the next two years.

The inauguration of the new administration and the retirement of Mayor T. Samuel Browning and Commissioner Miles L. Jones took place with the best of feeling prevailing on all sides.

After the formal meeting of the new administration, adjournment was taken until 8 o'clock this evening when the heads of city departments will be submitted and confirmed.

No Chief of Police. One of the first resolutions to be passed by the new commission will provide for the elimination of the office of chief of police. Under Commissioner Ward the police department will be administered directly by him as head of the department of safety.

At tonight's meeting Claude Moyer, former deputy county clerk, will be made city recorder, succeeding W. J. Critchlow.

Wade Johnson will be named city attorney to succeed W. H. Reeder, Jr. Charles Koons will be named city treasurer to succeed Wallace Foulzer.

Commissioner Ward will submit the name of Jonathan Jones to be captain of police. Robert Dark, it is believed, will be captain of detectives.

Others to Be Named. The city sanitary inspector and the city physician are to be named by Commissioner Ward but it is understood that these selections have not been made as yet.

The new administration came into effect when the old commission approved the bonds of Ward and Francis.

As his farewell address Mayor Browning declared that the affairs of Ogden were in a fine shape and he was happy to be able to turn over the city in such good condition. He wished the new officers success.

Mr. Browning thanked the heads of the departments under his direction. He said he got honest and courteous service at all times.

Critchlow Speaks. Retiring Recorder Critchlow approved the choice of Claude T. Moyer as his successor. He said he retired with the best of feeling toward the new officials and volunteered his services in the event they were needed.

Retiring City Attorney Reeder said he was glad such an able man as Wade Johnson had been named to take over his department, which he said was in fine condition.

Mayor Francis paid a high tribute to the ability and integrity of the retiring commissioners, praised them for the faithful performance of their duties and expressed his appreciation of the good will extended.

Commissioner Ward said he was pleased by the many expressions of good will.

SENATE AND HOUSE TO DISCUSS NAVY AWARDS

Secretary Daniels Sends Report and Explanatory Letter on Service Medals

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—With the reconvening of congress today the chairman of the senate and house naval committees were to consider on the question of a joint investigation of the whole subject of naval decorations around which has centered a sharp controversy in the navy department.

When the first awards were announced some weeks ago, Chairman Page of the senate committee, asked Secretary Daniels for a report which has been forwarded. The secretary supplemented this with a letter, published today in which the theory of the awards was explained.

Mr. Daniels dwelt at length on the reasons for awarding distinguished service medals to the commanders of ten of the eleven American warships and transports sunk by submarines and mines during the war. He declared that "when we shall have forgotten the distinguished and honorable service of able and devoted officers ashore, the splendid courage of the men who met the shock of the submarine stillnettes unafraid will remain as a living glory and an honorable incentive to future naval heroes."

Local Republicans to Meet Chairman Hays

Arthur Woolley, W. H. Watts and J. U. Eldredge, Jr., are on the special committee to receive Will H. Hays, chairman of the national Republican committee, who will visit Salt Lake January 10. Mr. Hays will be guest at an informal dinner to be given at the Hotel Utah in the evening, and will speak to the state, county and precinct executives at this time. Between 150 and 200 members are expected to be present.

Other members of the committee as named by Henry Welsh, Republican state chairman, are William Spry, Nephi L. Morris, W. D. Riter, John Johnson, J. H. Garrett, N. G. Morgan, P. P. Gallagher, J. P. Casey, A. T. Moon, C. W. Nibley, George T. Odell, Charles M. Morris, J. C. Lynch, Ernest Bamberger, M. L. Fitchie, H. A. McCallum, N. A. Robertson, all of Salt Lake; C. E. Loose, Provo; Harvey Cluff, Provo; Charles R. Mabey, Bountiful; J. E. Johnson, Park City; W. L. Van Wagoner, Midway.

Appeal For Support of Monument Fund

An appeal for support of the Mormon battalion monument fund was voiced last evening at the Eleventh ward services by President Samuel G. Dye of the Ogden Stake. Patriotic songs and a flag salute by Boy Scouts were features of the evening's service. President Dye called attention to the achievement of the Mormon battalion seventy-three years ago. This week being set aside as a special week in which to collect subscriptions to the battalion fund, President Dye urged support by Ogdenites. The battalion monument will be erected on the capitol grounds at Salt Lake.

He gave a stirring account of the action of the Mormon battalion shortly after 1847, and related the trials and hardships connected with those times. Notwithstanding the fact that they had been driven from their homes at Nauvoo, President Dye stated, the Mormons proved loyal as demonstrated by the Mormon battalion.

Wild Charges Are Circulated In Mexico

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Charges that President Carranza had paid Henry P. Fletcher, American ambassador, $1,000,000 "to uphold the Carranza government," were circulated in Mexico in an effort to create hostility toward the United States. Mrs. Cora Lee Sturgis, of Washington, for eight months a prisoner in a rebel bandit camp with her husband and mother, testified today before a senate foreign relations sub-committee investigating the Mexican situation.

"When the bandit chief told me that story and he got it from Santaigo Rodriguez, a Zapotecan who had been sent from Mexico City to help obtain the release of my husband and mother, I told him it was a lie," Mrs. Sturgis said. "I said Mr. Fletcher was an honorable man and that the American government was honest. The bandit chief replied that any way, Ambassador Fletcher would never return to Mexico City."

Albert E. Wilfong to Be First Lieutenant

Adjutant General Fred Jorgensen of the Utah National Guard has announced the appointment of Albert E. Wilfong of Ogden as first lieutenant, field artillery, and assigned to Troop B.

Lieutenant Wilfong will assist Captain George Glasman in organizing the battery here. Plans for the new army are being completed and it is expected that Governor Bamberger will announce the site and other details of the new armory during the next ten days.

Lieutenant Wilfong has had several years of experience in military work. During the world war he was a captain in the field artillery, being with the 145th field artillery. He was discharged October 29, 1919.

United Mine Workers Holding High Hopes For Just Settlement

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 5.—International officers of the United Mine Workers of America in agreeing to declare the recent miners' strike at an end "decided to submit to the inevitable, though protesting in our hearts against what we believed to be the attitude of our government," according to the report of Acting President John L. Lewis and Secretary Treasurer William Green at the special miners' convention here today.

The report reviews the miners' controversy from the date of the Cleveland convention up to the present time. Few, if any, developments not already made public are revealed and there is not the slightest hint that another strike is contemplated.

High Hopes for Justice. The international officers in their report state that "high hopes" are entertained that the decisions to be reached by the committee of three appointed by President Wilson, "will be fair and just to meet the general approval of our membership." Members of the commission are highly praised and declared to be "men of high character, trained in the consideration of industrial questions."

International officers, the report states, realized "better than the membership of our unions, the purpose and determination of the federal government," and decided to accept the plan proposed by President Wilson, which called for an immediate increase of 14 per cent. The original demands of the miners called for an increase of 60 per cent in wages.

At the time the acceptance was made, the report continues, it was pointed out to the miners' leaders that the strike had passed from a mere controversy between operators and miners over a question of wages to an issue between the supremacy of law and the ability of the government to enforce its mandates and decrees.

Test of Strength. "In other words it was no longer a controversy between employer and employee, but instead a test between the strength of a group of working men and the government itself."

The report states that at the time of the Cleveland convention, when the strike order was tentatively issued, "no one could foresee the turn events have taken and the necessity in meeting the new and unexpected situations which have arisen. It has been found quite impossible to follow the rigid and inflexible policy laid down at the Cleveland convention. We have been forced to adjust ourselves to a changed situation, not contemplated, or considered, when the original plans and policies were adopted."

"The Lever law, a war-time measure, is still in effect. Under its provisions the government exercised its wartime powers and was fully supported by the judicial, military, legislative and executive branches of the government."

"The construction of Lever Law, to mean that where two men agreed to quit mining coal they were guilty of a conspiracy and subject to the punishment of the Lever law."

"We are confident that it was not the most trying situation ever presented to the officers of a labor organization in a broadminded, constructive way. We could not afford, at any time, to substitute feeling for judgment when our reasoning powers dictated a right course of action. We would be unfit to lead you or to act for you if we did not decide in a crisis to follow a

JUDGE SULLIVAN TO DECIDE A SAD CASE

Stepfather of Youngster to Appear and Explain Why Son is Considered Incurable

"Meek as a lamb" is Judge Dan Sullivan's description of a youngster whose stepfather is trying to send to the Industrial School as an incorrigible character. Judge Sullivan stated that he had received a letter from the stepfather of a 12-year-old boy, and the letter is said to have been written in a threatening vein. It contained a statement, Judge Sullivan stated, to the effect that the boy would be turned out of his home unless he was taken into custody by the juvenile authorities.

The youngster, in complaints made by the stepfather, has repeatedly been hauled before the court on various charges. It is said, but because of lack of evidence, no action against the boy was taken.

Judge Sullivan said that the stepfather would appear before the juvenile court to explain why he was not capable of caring for the boy, who is described as a delicate, undersized child, with not enough strength to be incorrigible, as termed by the stepfather.

Daily Market Report

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Pressure of faced most grains within the first hour, short selling being induced by the low ratio of reserves reported by the federal reserve bank and uncertainty respecting decisions which the United States supreme court is expected to hand down today. Reactions of 1 to 4 points accompanied the fever of mass of leading steels, equipments and motors and such specialties as American Woolen. Allied shares made corresponding declines, but metals and rubber issues were firm. Call money opened at ten per cent, the lowest initial rate in several weeks.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—Stormy weather moving eastward from the Missouri river had a bullish influence today on the corn market. Higher quotations on hogs tended also to lift the value of corn. Besides, export inquiry for corn was again in evidence although only for small amounts. Opening prices, which ranged from 1/4 to 1 1/4c higher, with May 1 3/4c to 1 3/4c, and July 1 3/4c to 1 3/4c, were followed by a moderate reaction, and then by an upturn higher than before.

Offerings of oats were readily absorbed, and the market hardened with corn. After opening unchanged to 1/4c higher, including May at 83c to 82c, prices sagged somewhat, and then scored a general gain.

Provisions reflected the strength of hogs and corn. Lard led the advance.

Juvenile Court Has Pitiful Case on Hands

Commitment to the state industrial school because his parents make life at home unbearable in the prospect of a youngster now at the city jail, according to Judge Dan B. Sullivan of the juvenile court. For the past week, the boy has been sleeping in various places about the basements of downtown buildings.

Judge Sullivan states that the boy is of a very timid nature and has voiced no complaint against his home life. He runs away from home, however, for several days at a time.

While no sentence has been imposed upon the boy as yet, it is expected that he will be committed to the state industrial school, and according to intimations by Judge Sullivan, the parents of the youth will probably be called upon for a sum of money each month for the boy's upkeep.

Old and New Officials To Be Guests of Club

Outgoing and incoming city officials will be the guests of the Weber club and Ogden Chamber of Commerce at a dinner at the Weber club this evening. President Warren L. Watts will preside.

Mayor Frank Francis, Commissioner J. Ray Ward, and Chris Flygare are the new members of the city commission who will be honored. These men in company with all defeated candidates at the recent election will be present.

Ex-Mayor Browning, ex-Commissioner Miles L. Jones, defeated candidates, and newspaper men, together with directors of the Weber club and Ogden Chamber of Commerce, have also been invited to attend. The program will start at 8 o'clock.

January 17 Will Be Thrift Day in Nation

January 17 has been set aside by the government as National Thrift day. Schools and colleges throughout the United States will observe the day, according to word received here. The work of the Y. M. C. A. in the great struggle for democracy was started on that date, and the birthday of one of America's greatest statesmen—Benjamin Franklin, also falls on January 17.

In Ogden special programs will be carried out at the schools. Thrift will be the keynote to the success of the celebration. Detailed programs from the schools of the city will be made during the next ten days.
